A Chance for Intending Immigrants in the East.

It is true to the principles of our party splendidly timbered; and on one side of the survey there is coal 6 his voice to that of an animal and feet 4 inches thick, and on the other or southern side 6 feet, with black walnut enough for the demand of New England for years I quote from a report made by a disinterested sworn officer, under whose sale I became a purchaser. "The quantity to be sold is 37, 348 acres, and is divided into small lots. The whole tract is well suited to furnish immigrating compa nies from Europe a compact and extensive tract of land sufficient for a small colony, that can have their own churches, their own schools and ministerial officers, and with industry and enterprise, could

"The soil is peculiarly adopted to grazing, raising corn, wheat, tobacco, grapes, fruits, and all the necessaries of life; and is especisuits of persons from high latitudes, and accustomed to the cultivation of high lands. It is the same lati-*tude where grapes grow in the great-est abundance in this entire country, and where our most successful on terprise in the manufactule of wine abounds."

I own this tract; and while I cannot compete with low prices untitled lands, yet I am anxious to have many industrious men who may come amongst us, furnished with a comfortable home, and with the cocked hat of independence and having corn to sell. Don't accuse me of preventing emigra

It will no doubt be read with interest by persons who are inquiring in regard to West Vir-ginia lands. We have been trying to put inquirers after such infor mation in communication with those who have land to sell—especially those who hold it in large tracts, such as Mr. B. describes, be cause we maintain that it is vital to the best interest of West Virgin in that these large holdings should be cut up and parcelled out at as early, a day, as possible. There, is little or no inducement to improve lands held bin large bodies o The temptation is to resist everything that increases taxation unless it brings direct and immediate reinterior of the State has improved so sloly. These large tracts need to be cut up into small farms and peopled with immigrants who are not afraid to put themselves in not afraid to put themselves in close contact with mother earth.

There are scores of such people in the East who would be "glad" to a state of the public patronage.

Corporal Punishment in Schools.

In State against Mizner, 45 Iowa 248, it was held that a school teacher has the right, when neces sary to maintain discipline, moder ately to chastise his pupilts. In the same case, recently again before the court, it was held that such chastisement, to be justifiable, mus be for a definite offence which the pupil has committed, and that a failure to pursue the studies, or to attend at the hours fixed by the rules, was not such an offence, and that whipping therefor was not jus-tifiable. The remedy in such case the court thought was expulsion from the school. The right of a teacher to chastise in moderation a disorderly pupil is very generally recognized. But the above decision in Mizner's case usefully illustrates the fact that the law does not justify a brute, even though he happen to occupy the position of teacher, in assaulting his pupils without good and sufficient cause In Vizard against Neate, recently decided by the Bath County Court, England, it was held that an ordi nary school teacher and a Sunday school teacher were on the same footing so far as relates to the right of chastisement; and that this right extended to the maintenance of proper discipline and order dur ing a pleasure excursion or "out- IS ASTONISHING!
